

MISSISSIPPI STUD

Mississippi Stud players compete against a pay table rather than the dealer, and win if their hand is a pair of Jacks or better. Players make an Ante bet to receive their first two cards.

The dealer will place three community cards face down in the middle of the layout. Once they receive their cards, players may either fold or make the Third Street bet of one to three times their Ante. The dealer will then reveal the first community card, and players may either fold or make the Fourth Street bet of one to three times their Ante. The dealer will then reveal the second community card, and players can either fold or stay in the game by making the Fifth Street bet from one to three times their Ante.

After the dealer turns over the final community card, he resolves all bets left in action. Players win if their five-card hand contains a pair of sixes or better. Note: When a player folds, he forfeits all bets left in action.
